Adams County News and Information

County Introduces Quarterly Video Update, Streaming Public Hearings

With the goal of reaching and engaging more Adams County residents, the Public Information Office has introduced “Absolutely Adams” on the county’s YouTube channel. The video news update will also be available through YouTube and our municipal partners who will air the video update on Channel 8.

“We want to provide updates on new programs, events and activities that will allow our residents to become more engaged with the county,” said County Manager Todd Leopold. “We understand that you have to reach people in a variety of ways in 2015, so it makes sense to introduce something that people can watch at their convenience on a phone, tablet or television.”

In addition to the county’s YouTube channel, “Absolutely Adams” will be produced quarterly and posted to the county’s website, www.adcogov.org and social media sites. The county has been streaming public hearings and land use cases on YouTube since late last year.
